Test Your Knowledge: Accident Investigation and Analysis!

Prevention means eliminating hazards at the source to protect the health, safety and physical integrity of workers. This is essential in the workplace. Accident investigation and analysis are approaches that allow you to gather all the facts at the time of an accident. This helps to determine the cause of the accident and aids in avoiding repetition of a similar event. Equally important are investigating incidents that could have had serious consequences. For example, a pile of tires falls at 3 am in a deserted warehouse. No one is hurt and there is no material damage.

It's only 3 questions! Click here to test your knowledge.

Tech Talk: Roles in Information Technology

When we are having issues with our computers, web browsers, TVs or other pieces of technology, we normally think of calling our IT Department. They will somehow fix the issue and potentially tell us how to avoid the error again. When one professional from IT cannot fix our issue, they will send someone else. Why is that? Is one person better than another?

Wellness Talk: Informed Decisions for Your Wellbeing

Whether the decision is to take a medication, eat a certain food, or watch a movie with violent content, it is our decision. These decisions impact our wellbeing. All too often we make decisions without the necessary information to make a good decision. Before you purchase or eat a packaged food, do you read the labels?
